

FRIDAY COURIER-JOURNAL

CHERRY INDORSED BY HIS HOME PEOPLE

Great Assembly Cheer the Noted Educator and Adopt Stirring Resolutions Endorsing
His Candidacy for Governor.

A great mass meeting was held at Bowling Green on Saturday, December 28th, to endorse the candidacy of Dr. H. H. Cherry for the Democratic nomination for Governor. It was an enthusiastic meeting, and one which showed that the people of his native county, among whom he has lived and worked all his life, appreciate his qualities of life and leadership, and are back of his candidacy. Mr. Morgan Hughes, a fellow-townsmen of Dr. Cherry, and a noted western Kentucky farmer, reported, as chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, the following resolutions, which were unanimously and enthusiastically adopted:

Dr. H. H. CHERRY, Bowling Green.

"The Democrats of Warren county, hailing from every precinct within her borders, in mass meeting assembled do hereby confidently and enthusiastically commend to the Democracy of the Commonwealth of Kentucky the candidacy of H. H. Cherry, who seeks his party's nomination as its candidate for Governor, at the primary election to be held on August 2, 1919. Dr. Cherry was born and reared in Warren county, springing from a Christian family of hardy pioneers. Here he has spent his life. Here he has risen by his unaided efforts, from a humble farmer-lad to become the head of a great educational institution, in which the people everywhere feel a justified pride; and from here his influence for good has radiated throughout the entire State. Every forward-looking movement for the credit of the State and the welfare of the people has always had in him an earnest and effective champion. Every moral issue which has arisen has always found him on the right side. Every progressive measure for which has been proposed, whether for governmental efficiency, educational expansion, agricultural betterment, or purity in politics, has always received his unflinching support. He is an earnest and life-long Democrat, who has hitherto been content to be a worker in the ranks. His excellent ability, tried through years of experience, and tested by many difficulties, is of the highest order. Personally honest, politically incorruptible, trained in the difficult work of intelligent and effective leadership, he is eminently qualified to fill the office of Governor, with credit alike to himself and to the Commonwealth. We, his fellow-county men, earnestly endorse his candidacy, and confidently bespeak for him the generous support of every Democrat everywhere throughout the entire State."

Dr. Cherry has issued a progressive program. In his announcement he states that he submits his desires to the people, and under no circumstances will he be a candidate of any political faction. He stands for perfecting the tax and road laws; for organizing the finances of the State upon a sound, equitable and just basis; for economy and efficiency in all departments of State government; for the elimination of every useless job and all forms of waste; for local, State and National prohibition; for the right of suffrage for the women of the State equally with the men; for safeguarding and promoting the rights of the laboring man; for better rural schools; for better health conditions; for a non-partisan judiciary, and, for the non-partisan management of charitable and penal institutions, free from all political influences. He also endorses reforms along other vital lines. He believes that capital should be encouraged to come within our borders; that labor should be secured and receive fair treatment and just compensation; that education should drive illiteracy from the State, and agriculture, which is the basis of our wealth, should be fostered and raised to the highest degree of efficiency. He declares that Kentucky needs more fields of alfalfa, more agricultural limestone, and other things, and less political bismuth.

If you endorse this character of a man and the principles he advocates, Dr. Cherry would value your support, and if you feel like writing him, he would greatly appreciate hearing from you.

Madison Boy Has Been Fighting Bolsheviks

John Walker Ballard, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ballard, formerly of this county, is on the U. S. S. Olympia, and has been stationed with it recently at Archangel, Russia where there has been some little trouble with the Bolsheviks in which the boys from Uncle Sam's ship had a hand. A Sunday paper had a picture of a soldier and a sailor from the Olympia counting Bolshevik prisoners and although nothing but the back of the American sailor could be seen, it did not look unlike that of the sturdy Madison county boy who is on that warship. Young Ballard has just written his mother an interesting letter in which he says:

U. S. S. Olympia, Dec. 5, 1918.

Dear Mother—I wrote to you a few days ago and thought I would write again as the censorship has been stopped, so we can write what we want to. Well, I have been in Russia for the last seven months. We were at Murmansk, Russia five months and a while at Archangel, so then we left there and on to Invergrad, Scotland, and are now at present at Portsmouth, England. We have been here over a week and in dry docks. We will be here for a few weeks and then they say we will go to Philadelphia, but I don't know how true it is. They have been giving ten days' leave here, but I have not got mine yet. It is only 80 miles to London so that when I get mine, I will go.

Everything is very high. We saw two German subs come in here yesterday. I will not attempt to tell you what I have seen or what I have been through. We had to fight the Russians, or some of them—the ones that took sides with the Germans—but we had good luck and never lost a man.

I had my picture taken and will send you one. I get liberty every other night and have been having some time. There is plenty of amusement here and a dance every night and lots of good looking girls, and they sure do like American sailors.

Murmansk, Russia, is the worst place I ever saw. We could not buy anything and could not see much. But Archangel was a large place and we could buy a few things or most any little thing. We brought some soldiers from Archangel to Invergrad. They were wounded and they were shot up pretty badly.

I have seen the sun shine at 12 o'clock at night but now it is dark all the time in Russia.

Hope I will hear from you soon and a long letter. Your son,
J. W. BALLARD, JR.

Mr. John Hurst Adams, formerly connected with the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School in the capacity of publicity and field agent, but who is at present Superintendent of the big consolidated school at Minerva, Mason county, in addition to his educational duties, has recently been made editor of the Mayesville Daily Independent, the leading newspaper of Northeastern Kentucky. Besides writing daily the leading editorials on current topics, which are exceedingly well done and have decided brightened the pages of the Independent. Mr. Adams also contributes every week a column of spicy political gossip under the caption of "Kentucky Politics and Politicians," which is a most readable feature of the paper. He has recently been appointed a member of the Textbook Commission, and is one of the coming Kentucky educators. Mrs. Adams, who before her marriage was Miss Anna Louise Rhoer, is a graduate of the Eastern Normal. She is assisting her husband in the conduct of the Minerva school, and they are meeting with much success in their new field of activity. "OVER THE TOP,"

Sergeant Empey's Interesting
Story of the War.

About seven-fifteen I sneaked my overcoat and cap out of the ward and hid it in the bushes. Then I told the nurse, a particular friend of mine, that I was going for a walk in the rose garden. She winked and I knew that everything was all right on her end.

Going out of the ward, I slipped into the bushes and made for the wall. It was dark as pitch and I was groping through the underbrush, when suddenly I stepped into space and felt myself rushing downward, a horrible bump, and blackness. When I came to my wounded shoulder was hurting horribly. I was lying against a circular wall of bricks, dripping with moisture, and far away I could hear the trickling of water. I had in the darkness fallen into an old disused well. But why wasn't I wet? According to all rules I should have been drowned. Perhaps I was and didn't know it.

As the shock of my sudden stop gradually wore off it came to me that I was lying on a ledge and that the least movement on my part would precipitate me to the bottom of the well.

I struck a match. In its faint glare I saw that I was lying in a circular hole about twelve feet deep—the well had been filled in! The dripping I had heard came from a water pipe over on my right.

With my wounded shoulder it was impossible to shany up the pipe. I could not yell for help, because the rescuer would want to know how the accident happened, and I would be haled before the commandant on charges. I just had to grin and bear it, with the forlorn hope that one of the returning night raiders would pass and I could give him our usual signal of "sis-s-s-s," which would bring him to the rescue.

Every half-hour I could hear the clock in the village strike, each stroke bringing forth a muffled volley of curses on the man who had dug the well.

After two hours I heard two men talking in low voices. I recognized Corporal Cook, an ardent "night raider." He heard my "sis-s-s-s" and came to the edge of the hole. I explained my predicament and amid a lot of impertinent remarks, which at the time I did not resent, I was soon fished out.

Taking off our boots, we sneaked into the ward. I was sitting on my bed in the dark, just starting to undress, when the man next to me, "Ginger" Phillips, whispered, "Op it, Yank, 'ere comes the matron."

I immediately got under the covers and feigned sleep. The matron stood talking in low tones to the night nurse and I fell asleep.

When I awoke in the morning the night sister, an American, was bending over me. An awful sight met my eyes. The coverlet on the bed and the sheets were a mass of mud and green slime. She was a good sport all right, and hustled to get clean clothes and sheets so that no one would get wise, but "on her own" she gave me a good tongue lashing but did not report me. One of the Canadians in the ward described her as being "a Jake of a good fellow."

Next visiting day I had an awful time explaining to my visitor why I had not met her at the appointed time and place.

And for a week every time I passed a patient he would call, "Well, well, here's the Yank. Hope you are feeling well, old top."

The surgeon in our ward was an American, a Harvard unit man, named Frost. We nicknamed him "Jack Frost." He was loved by all. If a Tommy was to be cut up he had no objection to undergoing the operation if "Jack Frost" was to wield the knife. Their confidence in him was pathetic. He was the best sport I have ever met.

One Saturday morning the commandant and some "high up" officers were inspecting the ward, when one of the patients who had been wounded in the head by a bit of shrapnel, fell on the floor in a fit. They brought him round, and then looked for the ward orderly to carry the patient back to his bed at the other end of the ward. The orderly was nowhere to be found—like our policemen, they never are when needed. The officers were at a loss how to get Palmer into his bed. Doctor Frost was fidgeting around in a nervous manner, when suddenly with a muffled "d—n" and a few other qualifying adjectives, he stooped down and took the man in his arms like a baby—he was no feather, either—and staggered down the ward with him, put him in bed and undressed him. A low murmur of approval came from the patients. Doctor Frost got very red, and as soon as he had finished undressing Palmer, hurriedly left the ward.

Catarrh is a Real Enemy and Requires Vigorous Treatment

Do Not Neglect It.

When you use medicated sprays, atomizers and douches for your Catarrh, you may succeed in unstopping the choked-up air passages for the time being, but this annoying condition returns, and you have to do the same thing over and over again. Catarrh has never yet been cured by these local applications. Have you ever experienced any real benefit from such treatment?

Throw these makeshift remedies to the winds, and get on the right treatment. Go to your drug store to-day, get a bottle of S. S. S., and commence a treatment that has been praised by sufferers for nearly half a century. S. S. S. gets right at the source of Catarrh, and forces from the blood the germs which cause the disease. You can obtain special medical advice regarding your own case without charge by writing to Medical Director, 22 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

This will be making your deposit bear interest, instead of running without.

We shall be very glad to see your name on our list as a member of this Club.
